

Meet some of my four-legged friends from the Draughton Riding Centre, Skipton, where I go riding

Honey

Honey was a loving and caring horse. When you went up to her, she used to lick your hands clean; the best thing about Honey was when you went in to her stable she let you hoof pick her and she let you fill her water container. She sadly had a disease called colic and died on 2 October 2019, only the day after I had my last ride on her. Colic is a symptom of abdominal (belly) pain, which can be really serious in horses. In fact there are over 70 different types of intestinal problems which can affect horses.

Marmite

This is Marmite having a cuddle. Sadly, he's not alive any longer, but he was a lovely horse. I remember him very well and used to ride him.

Nelson

This is Nelson. He has the same name as the town where our School and College is!

JJ and Dinky

JJ is on the left and Dinky is on the right

Barnaby

Meet Barnaby!

Angel

This is Angel, looking so gorgeous.
