Reading Hearts

Dear Parents / Carers,

I am writing to ask you as parents and carers for your support in developing the reading and comprehension skills of our young people.

We have decided to introduce a new reading incentive called 'Reading Hearts'. There will be a sheet of reading hearts attached to the back of your child's reading record and your child's class teacher will tick off a heart every time your child reads with you at home, and you as parents / carers leave a comment. Your child will also receive a tick if you share a story with them at home.

Once the sheet is full, your child will be able to choose a reward from the prize box and then they will be given a new sheet of hearts.

We will keep a record of the number of hearts each child receives and the student with the most hearts will receive a bigger prize at the end of each term.

As always, I thank you for your continued support with improving reading across school.

Yours sincerely,

C Endersby
Assistant Headteacher
